

BROUGHT TO YOU BY THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY PROGRAM IN JEWISH STUDIES HERE AND NOW LECTURE SERIES, CO-SPONSORED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF GENDER & WOMEN'S STUDIES AND THE GERMAN STUDIES PROGRAM IN THE DEPARTMENT OF MODERN & CLASSICAL LANGUAGES, LITERATURES & CULTURES

Translating From Yiddish to English: Reclaiming Women's Voices

Presented by
Anita Norich
(University of Michigan)
&
Jessica Kirzane
(University of Chicago)

NOVEMBER 14TH
7 PM - 8:30 PM | ZOOM
HTTPS://UKY.ZOOM.US/J/81794465943

Bringing lost women's novels in Yiddish to contemporary readers, these scholars and translators will share their latest translations with us.

Jessica Kirzane is an assistant instructional professor of Yiddish at the University of Chicago and will be reading from Miriam Karpilove's Diary of a Lonely Girl.

Anita Norich is a professor emeritus of English and Judaic Studies at the University of Michigan and will be reading the title story of Chana Blankshteyn's Fear and Other Stories.

